Update – ElectraNet power outage

Repairs to ElectraNet’s transmission network is expected to be complete later this evening. There were more than 21,000 lightning strikes recorded over a 12-hour period from midday yesterday on the West Coast, and as a result it is likely some damage has occurred to our distribution network.

Once the transmission supply is restored to our distribution network, we will commence restoration of power supply to customers.

We have mobilised all available crews to assist in the restoration effort, and to limit the duration of any subsequent customer power outages.

There is the possibility some customers may be without power overnight.

Stay away from downed power lines and report via 13 13 66.
